New Testament Hours Feb 26 2021 Excerpt from New Testament Hours, Vol. 1 This volume completes my study of St. Paul. I have striven to keep free from traditional conceptions of any kind, and to set the Apostle and his Epistles before my readers as he and they would appear to his contemporaries. To transfer our modern developments of ecclesiastical affairs to his age, distorts his whole story and robs it of its most valuable lessons. In theology I have simply stood behind the Apostle, and given his words and arguments without the colour of any school. As to the amplifications introduced in the texts of the Epistles, to make them more easily understood by the ordinary reader, they are seldom my own, but almost always those of the highest critical authorities of our day. I admire the surgical skill of reviewers, and am greatly obliged by their kind estimate of the volume already published, but it may be well if I put them on their guard, lest when they think they are launching an arrow at me, they find they have transfixed one or other of the supreme living or recent masters of New Testament literature. Half-Hours With American History Mar 18 2020 Excerpt from Half-Hours With American History, Vol. 1 Of histories of America there exists an abundant store, some of them attempting to cover the whole period, others limited in scope, while many are devoted to some single topic of the varied panorama of national life. Some of these works are noted for brilliancy of style, others for conscientiousness in research, others as being written by participants in the events described, while to still others quaintness of manner or antiquity of date gives a certain value. Yet few of them are without unevenness of quality, and in history as in general literature authors often appear to most advantage in selected extracts from their works, since no man can be always at his best. Led by this consideration, the editor has deemed it desirable to add to his "Half-Hours with the Best American Authors" a companion work of "Half-Hours with American History," which he hopes may be found to have a special value of its own. The subject is certainly one of the highest interest and importance, while many of the works from which selections have been made are beyond the reach of general readers, and often too voluminous for the taste and leisure of others than students of history. Watching an Hour, Vol. 1 Dec 15 2019 Excerpt from Watching an Hour, Vol. 1: A Book for the Blessed Sacrament You will not read in our Lord's life much about His Sleeping. In fact the hours of Sleep are in a sense hardly a part of man's life. You have heard Jesus say, speaking Of Himself, The Son Of Man hath not whereon to lay His head. Jesus found it difficult to get a resting place for the night. The rare mention Of His Sleeping, then, makes famous the sleep of Jesus during a storm on the lake Of Galilee. He was tired with the day's work which had been heavier than usual. When He entered the boat of the apostles to cross the lake, He lay down in the stern Of the vessel and rested His head on a pillow, which likely enough. Daytime Prayer Nov 13 2019 Prayers for mid-morning, midday, and midafternoon.

The Darkest Hour Oct 25 2020 My name is Lucie Blaise. I am sixteen years old. I have many aliases, but I am none of the girls you see. What I am is the newest recruit of Covert Ops. And we are here to take down Hitler. After the Nazis killed my brother on the North African front, I volunteered at the Office of Strategic Services in Washington to do my part for the war effort. Only instead of a desk job at the OSS, I was tapped to join the Clandestine Operations—a secret espionage and sabotage organization of girls. Six months ago, I was deployed to German-occupied France to gather intelligence and eliminate Nazi targets. My current mission: Track down and interrogate a Nazi traitor about a weapon that threatens to wipe out all of Western Europe. Then find and dismantle the weapon before Hitler detonates it. But the deeper I investigate, the more danger I'm in. Because the fate of the free world hangs in the balance, and trusting the wrong person could cause millions of lives to be lost. Including my own.

Contributions to Oriental Literature, Or the Leisure Hours, Vol. 1 of 2 (Classic Reprint) Jul 22 2020 Excerpt from Contributions to Oriental Literature, or the Leisure Hours, Vol. 1 of 2 It was not my wish to present the public with a volume containing my writings in poetry and prose. But, soon after the appearance of the History of the Sinhalese language, embodied in my Introduction to the Sidat Sangare't, published by me in 1852, a controversy arose regarding some of my remarks on the inconsiderate criticism of the late lamented Dhammaratana, the renowned poet of Miripenna, on the Poem entitled The ganga-rohana, from which selections had been inserted in the *Grammar That controve'rsy awakened a spirit of inquiry previously unknown in Ceylon; and roused the dormant powers of a number of native scholars, who had been unknown to me, and had been content to remain buried in the obscurity and seclusion of their village Pansalas. With many of them I entered into correspondence. From some I obtained many valuable opinions. To others, who came forward to congratulate me, generally on what little success I had achieved, and to express their approbation of the Opinions I had broached on the subject of the controversy, courtesy at least demanded that I should reply. Whilst these writings thus increased the bulk of the mss. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
