The colours of catastrophe: Rediscovered autochrome photography of the First World War The devastating events of the First World War were captured in myriad photographs on all sides of the front. Since then, thousands of books of black-and-white photographs of the war have been published as all nations endeavour to comprehend the scale and the carnage of the "greatest catastrophe of the 20th century". Far less familiar are the rare colour images of the First World War, taken at the time by a small group of photographers pioneering recently developed autochrome technology. To mark the centenary of the outbreak of war, this groundbreaking volume brings together all of these remarkable, fully hued pictures of the "war to end war". Assembled from archives in Europe, the United States and Australia, more than 320 colour photos provide unprecedented access to the most important developments of the period - from the mobilization of 1914 to the victory celebrations in Paris, London and New York in 1919. The volume represents the work of each of the major autochrome pioneers of the period, including Paul Castelneau, Fernand Cuville, Jules Gervais-Courtellemont, Léon Gimpel, Hans Hildenbrand, Frank Hurley, Jean-Baptiste Tournassoud and Charles C. Zoller. Since the autochrome process required a relatively long exposure time, almost all of the photos depict carefully composed scenes, behind the rapid front-line action. We see poignant group portraits, soldiers preparing for battle, cities ravaged by military bombardment - daily human existence and the devastating consequences on the front. A century on, this unprecedented publication brings a startling human reality to one of the most momentous upheavals in history. For preschoolers just learning to color, Blippi: My First Coloring Book offers tons of coloring fun! In Blippi: My First Coloring Book, Blippi explores the deep sea, rockets off into space, munches carrots with rabbit friends, plays sports with his dog, visits a farm, and so much more! With 192 pages of large, simple images of Blippi in action that make coloring easy—and exciting—for young kids. Following Inge Morath's death in 2002, nearly 10,000 hitherto unknown color originals were recovered from storage in Paris and New York. This body of images, together with Morath's known archive of color material, reveals the development of a distinct sensibility. Inge Morath was undoubtedly influenced by the legendary hostility of her colleague, Henri Cartier-Bresson, to color photography. Morath's own ambivalence is reflected in the contradiction between the sheer volume of color film that she exposed and its absence from her exhibited and published works. Her color vision, already strong in her photographs of gypsy encampments in Ireland in 1954, matured in the late 1950s, during her documentation of the Middle East, in 1956, and Romania, where she worked in 1958. From the '60s on, Morath employed color as a central element within her documentary narratives. Filling in a significant lacuna in her previously published work, First Color is an examination of Morath's first decade of work in color, and is drawn largely from the trove of posthumously recovered material. A great way for young children to begin learning their colours with this fantastic sticker book. Additional pre-school activities provided for young children. From the creators of the Wee Gallery come these beautifully illustrated bath books that magically change color when you dip them in water. Color Me: Who's in the Ocean? introduces children to a range of sea creatures that include a fish, an octopus and a starfish. Squeezable and lightweight, each black-and-white creature transforms in a child's hands, guaranteeing hours of bathtime fun. The Urban Sketching Handbook: Color First, Ink Later presents a unique method for working with watercolor on the go—painting first, then adding sketch lines in ink—by Mike Daikubara, the author of The Urban Sketching Handbook: Sketch Now, Think Later. Children will love playing peekaboo with the animals as they learn first colours. This tactile bath book has a carry-along handle and hide-and-seek flaps, for tons of fun at bath time!
